Dear Parents/Carers

On Friday 16th February, The Ferns will be taking part in NSPCC's Number Day. Number Day is a maths themed fundraising day which has been created by the NSPCC and is being run in schools across the country. As you may be aware, the NSPCC is a charitable organisation which undertakes vital work in protecting children in various different ways. By becoming involved in the NSPCC's Number Day, we will be contributing to the vital work of the NSPCC, which relies largely on charitable donations.

As part of contributing to Number Day, we would suggest that on this day children can come to school dressed as a number, or dressed in attire that has a number based theme. This can be something as simple as an item of clothing with a number on it. The NSPCC suggests a donation of £2 be made on this day, and all of the money we raise as a school will go to the NSPCC.

Kind Regards.

Yours faithfully

M Trott
